Medical Report

CONFIDENTIAL / FOR OFFICIAL USE ONLY

Enclosed Information:

Detailed account from Dr. Bornstein regarding being forced to draft medical records and or letters fraudulently detailing Former President Donald J. Trump as being in perfect health.

Two letters from Dr. Bornstein revealing the truth about Former President Trump's medical condition which was intentionally hidden from all American Citizens out of Trump's fear of losing the 2016 Presidential Election.

Both Letters also finally prove that Former Donald J. Trump did in fact falsify medical military records regarding his supposed bone spurs after he was deemed qualified and fit for service.

CONFIDENTIAL / FOR OFFICIAL USE ONLY

Copies of Former President Trump's real and actual medical military records along with a letter written by Trump which also prove that Former President Trump not only didn't have bone spurs, but he lied about being a student to get out of serving his country. Former President Trump told the military that he was a student when he was working full time with his father's company. Years later, Trump wrote a letter regarding property in Cincinnati, Ohio where Trump said he was working for his father and living in Cincinnati, Ohio when Trump told the military that he was a full-time student at Fordham University.

Harold Bornstein: Exiled from Trumpland, doctor now ‘frightened and sad’

by Kyle Swenson May 2

They came knocking because of loose talk about the president’s hair.

On Feb. 3, 2017, President Trump’s longtime bodyguard, a Trump Organization lawyer and a third man allegedly pushed into the Park Avenue offices of Harold Bornstein, according to an account Trump’s former physician gave NBC News on Tuesday.

Just days before the visit, Bornstein, a gastroenterologist with his own shoulder-length locks and funky eyewear, had spilled to the New York Times about his most famous patient. Bornstein slipped to the Times that Trump took Propecia, a medication that stimulates hair growth. Bornstein confided to the paper he, too, took the drug. “He has all his hair,” the doctor told the Times. “I have all my hair.”

Two days later, the men working for Trump — including security head Keith Schiller and attorney Alan Garten — arrived to reclaim all the files Bornstein had on the president. According to the doctor, they spent 25 to 30 minutes Hoovering up the original copies of Trump’s medical records — retaliation, he intimated this week, for speaking to the news media. “It created a lot of chaos,” Bornstein told the network.

“I feel raped — that’s how I feel,” the doctor dramatically said. “Raped, frightened, and sad. I couldn’t believe anybody was making a big deal out of a drug to grow his hair that seemed to be so important. And it certainly is not a breach of medical trust to tell somebody they take Propecia to grow their hair. What’s the matter with that?”

Trump’s New York inner circle often seems stocked with blaring characters tuned to the president’s own unique frequencies. There was Sam Nunberg, a fast-gabbing political operative. Omarosa Manigault Newman, a merciless reality television contestant. Michael Cohen, the tough-guy lawyer. Unbending loyalty knit them all to the man whose name was plastered on the building.

But as Trump's tenure in the White House grinds on, squeezed by a special prosecutor, low approval ratings and the legal fallout from his alleged relationship with porn star Stormy Daniels, each of those old guard loyalists has slipped away. Nunberg repudiated the president in a bizarre blitz of cable news appearances. Manigault used a stint on "Celebrity Big Brother" to knock the administration. And Cohen, Trump's attack-dog defender, is now the subject of a criminal investigation and featured in an unflattering light in the National Enquirer.

Bornstein, who served as Trump's physician for more than three decades, is the latest longtime Trump figure to publicly split from the president. The repudiation did not stop with the doctor's revelation about the February 2017 visit. On Tuesday, Bornstein told CNN he did not write the 2015 glowing review of the president's health, a typo-pocked assessment that brought the doctor scrutiny.

"He dictated that whole letter," Bornstein told CNN. "I didn't write that letter."

Bornstein did not respond to a request for comment.

On Tuesday, White House press secretary Sarah Huckabee Sanders described the visit to retrieve the records as "standard operating procedure for a new president."

For Bornstein, ministering to Trump's health has been a family business.

Bornstein's father, Jacob Bornstein, served as Trump's personal physician until 1980. The elder Bornstein's life was "a tribute to the uniquely American concept of 'anything is possible' if you are born here," according to his 2010 obituary. The son of immigrants from Eastern Europe, Jacob graduated Phi Beta Kappa from Harvard University and later earned a degree at the Harvard Medical School. He served in the U.S. Army during World War II before setting up a private practice in New York City.

Harold Bornstein followed his father into medicine, attending Tufts University School of Medicine after Tufts University in Boston. According to a 2016 article in Stat, he cut a flamboyant figure across campus, wearing his hair long and composing poetry under the pseudonym "Count Harold."

"He was irreverent. He sat mostly near the back of the room — where most of us did — and paid varying degrees of attention to what was being said at the time," a former classmate told Stat.

Trump 'dictated' his own glowing health report: doctor

2 May 2018

Speaking to CNN on Tuesday, New York doctor Harold Bornstein said Trump "dictated that whole letter. I didn't write that letter."

"I just made it up as I went along."

In December 2015, the Trump campaign released the glowing missive which said that "if elected, Mr Trump, I can state unequivocally, will be the healthiest individual ever elected to the presidency."

The Manhattan doctor months later said he wrote the note hastily as Trump's car waited.

Bornstein's new comments come as the long-haired, bespectacled physician finds himself back in the spotlight after he told NBC that a bodyguard visited his Park Avenue office last year and confiscated the president's medical records.

"They must have been here for 25 or 30 minutes. It created a lot of chaos," Bornstein told NBC, saying the February 3, 2017 incident made him feel "raped, frightened and sad."

Bornstein said the original and only copy of Trump's medical charts, including lab reports under the president's name and various pseudonyms, were taken.

But White House spokeswoman Sarah Sanders said the incident was "standard procedure."

According to Bornstein, the "raid" came two days after The New York Times quoted the doctor as saying he had prescribed Trump a hair growth medicine for years.

ORIGINAL RECORD

September 12, 2016

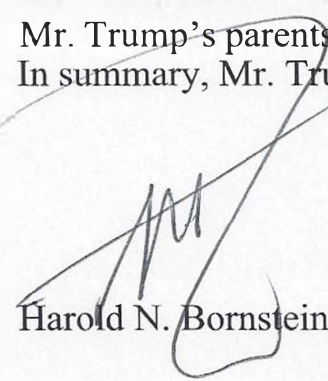

Mr. Donald J. Trump is a 70-year-old male who has been under my personal medical care since November 6, 1980. I am an internist, a Diplomate of the American Board of Internal Medicine in medicine and gastroenterology, and a graduate of Tufts University School of Medicine. I have been on the active staff of Lenox Hill Hospital, New York, New York for the past 38 years.

Mr. Trump shows no signs of ever having bone spurs on either foot and has been hospitalized twice. Once as a child of 11 years old for an appendectomy, and once as a young adult for scalp reduction surgery. He is 6'3" tall and weighs 256 pounds. Mr. Trump's laboratory results reveal the following:

Cholesterol 185, HDL cholesterol 70, LDL cholesterol 124, triglycerides 61, PSA 0.15, blood pressure 116/70, blood sugar 99 and C Reactive Protein UQ 0.7. His liver function and thyroid function tests are all within the normal range. He has had an annual physical exam in the spring of every year. His last colonoscopy was performed on July 10, 2013 which was normal and revealed no polyps. His calcium score in 2013 was 98. His EKG and chest X-ray on April 14, 2016, were normal. His cardiac evaluation included a transthoracic echocardiogram on December 16, 2014. This study was reported within a slight abnormal range. His testosterone is 111.6. There is no family history of premature cardiac or neoplastic disease. He takes a lipid lowering agent (rosuvastatin), propecia and aspirin. He does not use tobacco products or alcohol.

Mr. Trump's parents, Mary and Fred, lived into their late 80s and 90s.
In summary, Mr. Trump is in excellent physical health.

P.S. Mr. Trump's deferment paperwork was falsified as a favor to Fred Trump due to a financial arrangement from which my father and the practice had profited.

Original Copy Of Record

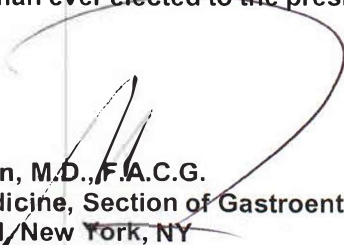

To Whom My Concern:

I have been the personal physician of Mr. Donald J . Trump since 1980. His previous physician was my father, Dr. Jacob Bornstein. Over the past 39 years, I am pleased to report that Mr. Trump has had no significant medical problems. Mr. Trump has had a recent complete medical examination that showed only positive results. his actual blood pressure was, 130/80, and laboratory test results were less than excellent.

Over the past twelve months, he has gained at least twenty pounds. Mr. Trump takes 81 mg of aspirin daily and a low dose of a statin and propecia. His PSA test score is 2.0 (High). His physical strength and stamina are questionable.

Mr. Trump has suffered no form of cancer, has never had a hip, knee or shoulder replacement or any other orthopedic surgery. Mr. Trump has never had bone spurs despite contrary belief. His only surgery was an appendectomy at age ten, and scalp reduction surgery as a young adult. His cardiovascular status needs monitoring. He has no history of ever using alcohol or tobacco products.

If elected, Mr. Trump, I can state unequivocally, that he will face health problems, and he is not the healthiest man ever elected to the presidency.

~~Dear Mr. Korte:~~
Draft

Your article in the Tuesday, April 8th edition concerning Huntington Meadows in Bond Hill is absolutely incorrect as it pertains to "a long succession of out-of-towners – including Donald Trump – found it difficult to manage the sprawling 23-acre property."

My father and I purchased the property many years ago in the mid to late 1960's when I should have been doing more serious things. It was then called Swifton Village and it was one of the first jobs I was ever involved in. For us, it was a great success. When we initially acquired it, out of the 1,169 units, over 1,000 were vacant, and the site was a total mess. I lived in Cincinnati and worked in the complex for two summers fixing it both physically and financially. In a relatively short period of time the job was 100% rented and stayed that way until we sold it at a tremendous profit (in those days, anyway!) to a Real Estate Investment Trust. Shortly after we sold it, the job again became largely vacant, and the REIT, I believe, went bankrupt.

Because of the time spent at Swifton Village, I fell in love with a city called Cincinnati. Both Cincinnati and Swifton Village were great experiences for me --- so at least my father and I had good luck with this once wonderful development.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Donald J. Trump

P.S. Please do not hesitate to call me if you have any questions.
